Art Unit: 1755

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-10, drawn to a concrete article, classified in class 106, subclass 724.
- II. Claims 11-12, drawn to a process for making a concrete article, classified in class 264, subclass 333.
- III. Claims 13-15, drawn to a concrete thickener, classified in class 524, subclass 5+.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the concrete article can be made by materially different methods such as pouring and shaping into a mold, injection molding, extrusion, etc.

Inventions I and III are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product (MPEP § 806.04(b), 3rd paragraph), and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.04(h)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful as a plastic material that can directly be used to make plastic articles (e.g. polyurethanes, polyacrylates) and zeolites can be used in a multitude of different fields from detergents to water softening agents to name only a few and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct since there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions anticipated by the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Inventions II and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the thickener material can be used in a process to make a plastic article or possibly used in a process for using a detergent or a process for using a water softener.

Even if not product and process of use, these inventions are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation, functions, and effects and are patentably distinct as shown by their mutually exclusive characteristics. As stated above, the thickener has a multitude of different uses outside cement and other thickeners conventional in the art outside the species claimed can also be used.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and search, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to John Gresens on 12/10/04 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Foreign Priority Claimed:

Applicants claim foreign priority in this application yet it will not be acknowledged until applicants submit the foreign priority document as part of the record and for scanning into the system. As of now, there is no record of the presence of the German foreign priority document.
